

Mr. To Kwan Hang

Executive Committee Member, League of Social Democrats

Born in 1966, To Kwan Hang spent his humble childhood in a grass-root family of Choi Hung Estate. He was a keen lover for sports, especially long-distance running during his teenage years in La Salle College. In 1989, when a groundbreaking student movement gathered momentum in Beijing, To was then the Chief Secretary of Hong Kong Federation of Students (HKFS) and supported the movement by organizing rallies and raising funds. In 1991 he joined United Democrats of Hong Kong (now known as Democratic Party) and got elected as a District Councilor in Wong Tai Sin. Since then he had been re-elected for 4 times and served the local residents, mostly poor and elderly, for over 20 years. In 2005, To stood firm on the side of estates residents by opposing the securitization project of public housing shopping centres and car parks (The LINK REIT). In 2006 he co-found a leftist coalition in League of Social Democrats with lifelong comrade Longhair Leung Kwok-hung, and thus originated the Five Constituencies Referendum Movement (Legco By-election) in 2010. Having a master degree in Public Policy and Management at City University, To is also a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) and currently running an audit firm beside his enthusiasm for social movement.
