He founded his first venture at age 18 (entertainment), second at age 22 (wearable technology), fourth at age 26 (media), and seventh at age 30 (artificial intelligence). When he was 29, Mr Yuen won the recognition of former Hong Kong's First Lady — Mrs Betty Tung, the spouse of Mr Tung Chee Hwa (former Chief Executive of Hong Kong), and was recruited as an organising committee member for her charity projects. At age 31, Mr Yuen found EntrepreneurHK (www.entrepreneurhk.org) — a private non-profit that works with startup leaders and government to build and improve Hong Kong's startup ecosystem. EHK now has more than 10,000 members.
