Biography

Professor Evelyn Goh is Shedden Professor of Strategic Policy Studies in the College of Asia & the Pacific at the Australian National University, where she is also the Director of Research at the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre.

Professor Goh's expertise is Asian security and international relations, in theory and practice. She is internationally known as a scholar who uniquely combines empirical rigour and theoretical innovation. She is a regional expert in the sense that she studies China, the U.S., Northeast and Southeast Asia. She has published widely on U.S.-China diplomatic history and contemporary strategic relations; East Asian security cooperation and institutions; Southeast Asian strategies towards great powers; and environmental security. Her key publications include The Struggle for Order: Hegemony, Hierarchy and Transition in Post-Cold War East Asia (Oxford University Press, 2013); Great Powers and Hierarchical Order in Southeast Asia: Analyzing Regional Security Strategies (International Security, 2007/8); and Constructing the US-China Rapprochement, 1961-1974 (Cambridge University Press, 2005). Most recently, she edited Rising China's Influence in Developing Asia (Oxford University Press, 2016).
