

Regime Support in China

Abstract

Autocrats may try to generate regime support in order to remain in power, but do they get the results they intend? This lecture reviews the recent public opinion data to analyze the causes and consequences of regime support in China. These findings have direct implications for state-society relations in contemporary China and for the sustainability of authoritarian regimes more generally.