

Professor David Shambaugh

Professor of Political Science & International Affairs
Direct of the China Policy Program
George Washington University

Biography

Professor David Shambaugh is an internationally recognised authority and author on contemporary China and the international relations of Asia, with a strong interest in the European Union and transatlantic issues. Professor Shambaugh is a Professor of Political Science & International Affairs; Director of the China Policy Program at George Washington University. He received a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Michigan, an M.A. in International Affairs from Johns Hopkins University Paul H. Nitze School of International Studies (SAIS), and a B.A. in East Asian Studies from the Elliott School of International Affairs at George Washington University.

He currently serves on the Board of Directors of the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations, and has been elected a member of the International Institute for Strategic Studies, Council on Foreign Relations, U.S. Asia-Pacific Council, and other public policy and scholarly organisations. He is a recipient of research grants from the Ford Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, Smith Richardson Foundation, German Marshall Fund, British Academy, U.S. National Academy of Sciences, and other philanthropic bodies.

Professor Shambaugh is a frequent commentator in international media, and has contributed to leading scholarly journals such as International Security, Foreign Affairs, The China Quarterly, and The China Journal.

His area of expertise focuses on China's domestic politics; China's foreign relations; China's military and security; and international relations in Asia.