

Abstract

Chinese Governance in the Age of Rising Expectations

A new generation of leaders has taken the helm in China. They inherit a country that has experienced more than thirty years of hyper growth. Yet the same country is also faced with growing expectations as well as imbalances. In this lecture, Professor Dali Yang of the University of Chicago discusses the evolution of the political economy of China's governance and the major factors that will affect its future.