

Mr Mohammed Turki Al-Sudairi

PhD Candidate

Department of Politics and Public Administration

The University of Hong Kong

Biography

Mr Mohammed Turki Al-Sudairi is a PhD candidate in Comparative Politics in The University of Hong Kong. He recently procured a master double degree from the London School of Economics and Peking University in International History and International Relations, and is a graduate of Georgetown University in the field of International Politics. His research largely deals with Sino-Middle East relations, Israeli advocacy, diasporic communities, and transnational religious influences between China and the region.