

The Transitions and Development of Young Ethnic Minorities in Hong Kong

To promote a socially inclusive campus, we need to examine not only the differences but also the similarities among individuals from diverse socio-cultural backgrounds which seems to be lacking in existing ethnic minority studies. This talk aims to fill this void by introducing the project Jockey Club Lab for Cultural Diversity Study (Community Support). Dr. Paul Wong will share the preliminary findings of their project and to suggest recommendations on how to facilitate the promotion of socially inclusive campus for both local Chinese and non-Chinese speaking individuals, professionals, and students.
