Biography

Professor Elaine Lynn-Ee Ho is Associate Professor in the Department of Geography at the National University of Singapore (NUS). She is also Senior Research Fellow at the Asia Research Institute at NUS. She is currently Assistant Dean of Research in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences (FASS) and was the former Chair of the faculty-level FASS Migration Cluster.

Professor Ho's research addresses how citizenship is changing as a result of multi-directional migration flows in the Asia-Pacific. She is author of Citizens in Motion: Emigration, Immigration and Re-migration Across China's Borders (2019, Stanford University Press), which received the American Sociological Association's (ASA) "Best Book in Global and Transnational Sociology by an International Scholar" award in 2019. The monograph conceptualises the spatial complexity and temporal co-evalness of migration, and further advances theorisation of co-ethnic and inter-ethnic relations. She has published widely on diaspora engagement and is now extending her research to two new domains: (1) transnational ageing and care in the Asia-Pacific, and (2) internal displacement at the China-Myanmar border, focusing on border im/mobilities, diaspora action and transnational aid.
