

Professor Xiaoguang Fan

School of Public Affairs

Zhejiang University

Biography

Professor Xiaoguang Fan is Associate Professor in the School of Public Affairs at the Zhejiang University. He is also Assistant Director for Academic Affairs in the Department. He received his PhD from Fudan University in 2015 and has since then worked at Zhejiang Academy of Social Sciences.

Professor Fan specializes in social stratification and mobility. Secondary area is Sociology of elites. His current work focuses on a) social consequence of entrepreneurs in transition society, b) super rich persons in China and US, c) wealth inequality. He received an advanced grant from the Sun Yat-sen University (SYSU) for a large survey on foreign residents (SFRC 2019-2021) in Hangzhou. This project will collect new multi-actor data on complex migration.

Professor Zhen Liu

School of Public Affairs
Zhejiang University

Biography

Professor Zhen Liu is Assistant Professor of Sociology in the School of Public Affairs at the Zhejiang University.

Professor Liu's research focuses on internal migration in China and immigration in the United States, particularly the impact of (parental) migration and immigration on children's education trajectories. She also works on research projects that aim to understand the interrelationships between internal migration, urbanization and environmental vulnerability in developing countries.