

Shir Raviv
Assistant Professor of Political Science
Tel Aviv University

Shir Raviv is an Assistant Professor of Political Science at Tel Aviv University and a non-resident fellow at the Institution for Social and Policy Studies at Yale University. Her research examines the political implications of rapid advances in artificial intelligence (AI) and the challenges of governing this technology in ways that reflect public values and preserve democratic accountability. More broadly, her work investigates the competing pressures that shape AI regulation across governments, international institutions, and the private sector.