

Class 5: Reflection and Gratitude

This is our last class. To sum up:

1. People from different places have different practices and habits, and this is something we should respect.
2. Respect also means being considerate and having good manners.

These are the things we can do:

1. Find common ground between ourselves and the others.
2. When faced with unfamiliar things, we should be respectfully curious and try to understand more.
3. Say “thank you” more often.
