

JC-WISE Public Lecture - My River, My Community: Reconnecting with Our Rivers

Natural rivers flow down from hills and meander through the plains to form a continuous stream. Urban development processes, however, had trained and altered our river channels into fragmented segments. Can we still find the multiple values of our rivers? How can we draw the society's attention to our river management approach and to achieve the goal of reconnecting our community with our rivers? This lecture will examine the peculiar situation of river management in Hong Kong and to explore the relationship between rivers and our community.
