

Europe and China: Global Partners or Competitors

Abstract

This address will focus on evolving relations between the European Union and China. In recent years, these relations have entered a difficult period and there is an urgent need for better mutual understanding to avoid further deterioration in relations between two great economic powers.